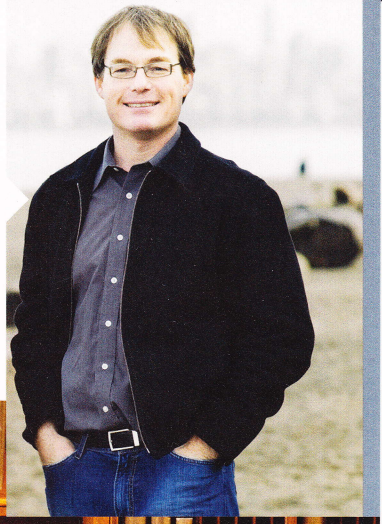
How did the 2010 Olympic and Paralympic Games impact our environment, society and economy? Rob VanWynsberghe knows. As the lead researcher in the Olympic Games Impact project, supported by VANOC, Rob discovered how the Games influenced our city, region and province. Read the full story online.

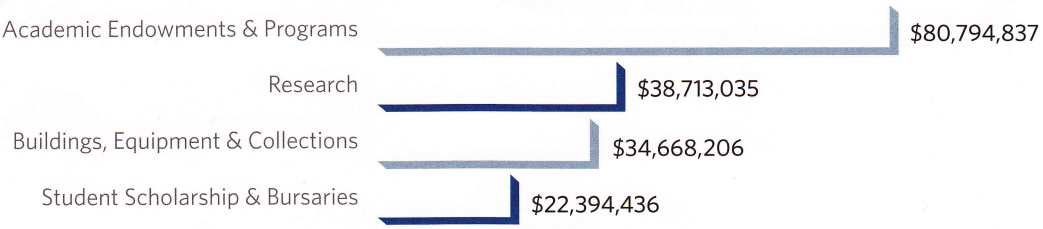


The newly-renamed Roy Barnett Recital Hall honours the UBC alumnus who gave back to his alma mater not in his faculty of graduation but in the area of his greatest passion: music.

A leadership gift from David Cheriton is supporting the Carl Wieman Science Education Initiative, which aims to dramatically improve undergraduate science education. The CWSEI scientifically measures what students are learning, compares that to what they should learn, adapts instructional methods and technology and spreads the news about what works. Watch CWSEI in action in the online video.

Mark MacLean
Instructor, UBC Mathematics

In 2009-10, 25,788 gifts have allowed UBC to invest $176,570,514 in:



www.supporting.ubc.ca/ROG

Thank you for your support. Please be in touch with your feedback.
Contact Leanne Poon, phone 604 827-5039 or email leanne.poon@ubc.ca
For more information on other great things happening at UBC, visit www.annualreview.ubc.ca